The food goals in this booklet are based on recommendations for active children aged 7 to 10. Daily food goals are different for different people depending on age, gender and level of physical activity. Find out the amount of healthy food you need each day by getting your personal food guide pyramid at www.mypyramid.gov.

Talk to the school foodservice director if you have any questions about school portion sizes. Visit your school's Web site for menus and information, and visit www.squaremeals.org for healthy recipes and more. Square Meals is the Texas Department of Agriculture's school nutrition education and outreach program, funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Service.

Please note that a serving is a standard amount used to give guidance on how much to eat.
A portion is the amount of food you choose to eat.

The pictures in this booklet reflect the actual physical size of the object shown.

In the food world, all portions are not created equal. By using a little imagination, you can find portion sizes that are just right. Look inside for some everyday items that are about the same size as healthy servings of your favorite foods. Keep them in mind at mealtime to choose just the right food portions and have fun growing.
